Ovzon selects Syntronic as production partner

In order to meet the increasing demand for Ovzon's industry leading, ultra-small mobile satellite terminals, Ovzon has, after an extensive evaluation process, selected Syntronic Production Services AB as their production partner.

Ovzon is in a significant growth and industrialization phase driven by the upcoming launch of the Ovzon 3 satellite, and the ongoing success of our high-performance SATCOM-as-a-Service offering. Ovzon's mobile satellite terminals are an integral part of this offering, and the demand for our terminals are also rising. Ovzon strategy is to continue strengthening our production and supply chain to guarantee delivery quality and increased volumes, which is essential to meet the high demands from our customers. Syntronic Production Services represents a production partner with an obvious commitment to the highest quality standards, state-of-the-art technology, a strong production capability and a very talented and dedicated workforce.

"We are honored to have been entrusted with this comprehensive mission. We look forward to working closely with Ovzon. We will focus on production and delivery capacity as well as quality," says Roger Lindholm, CEO of Syntronic Production Services.

"We have chosen a partner who can produce and deliver throughout the product life-cycle. We also had requirements for our partner to handle increasing volumes and global distribution. Syntronic met all these requirements and had strong credentials. We are convinced that they are an ideal partner for us," says Per Norén, CEO of Ovzon.
